Enable SAM from your existing discovery data

🔭 At a glance

Managing software inventory with discovery focussed tools like Microsoft SCCM, Intune, Lansweeper (and more) presents both opportunities and challenges.

These tools are widely used globally and provide valuable data by detecting and reporting installed software and hardware data across an organization's network. However, these tools often fall short when it comes to providing the detailed context needed for effective software management.
They typically lack insights into software licensing, usage, and compliance, making it difficult to identify unauthorized installations or optimize software use.

Despite these limitations, when used in conjunction with more specialized SAM tools, discovery tools can significantly enhance an organization's ability to manage software assets effectively and stay compliant.

📗 SAM Data is abundant

What is readily available in your current discovery?
☑ Installed software inventory lists all software installed across devices, providing a foundation for tracking license requirements.
☑ Software versions and editions offer details on the specific versions deployed to identify appropriate licenses.
☑ Device information such as core counts, device type, usernames, install dates to calculate the differing license models.
☑ End of life software identification detects outdated or unsupported software versions which pose as risk or future cost.
☑ Virtualisation data is key to calculating licensing requirements for most enterprise vendors and is readily available.
☑ All of the above data is readily available in your environment to apply to licensing compliance and cost optimisation.
☑ It's likely your company has used 3rd party services before who have requested this data to deliver SAM services.

💡 Unlocking its potential

Managing your software inventory doesn't have to be complex. With SIM, Licenseware's powerful Software Inventory Manager, we add the extra layer of work needed to gain SAM insights, helping you reduce costs, mitigate compliance risks, and streamline your operations.

🪙 Benefits

⭐ Prioritize Compliance and Risk Management
Identify software installations that could pose compliance risks or result in costly audit findings. SIM alerts you to software that requires attention.

⭐ Maximize Cost Efficiency
SIM helps you rationalize your software portfolio, standardizing installations and avoiding unnecessary expenses.

⭐ Understand your Software
Access to relevant licensing information about your products, including metrics, license models, pricing, and descriptions

Why SIM is Essential for Your Business

In today's fast-paced digital world, software management is more than just keeping track of licenses. It's about understanding your entire software environment to optimize costs, ensure compliance, and avoid unnecessary risks. SIM offers a holistic approach to software inventory management, providing clear and actionable insights that empower you to make strategic decisions.

🤓 Understand your software

SIM scans your entire software inventory, leveraging advanced recognition, matching, and enrichment processes to provide a complete picture of your software environment.

👉 Make strategic decisions

The resulting reports from SIM go beyond mere inventory lists. They provide in-depth details, including:

✅ Paid vs. Free Software: Highlighting cost-saving opportunities and potential budget optimizations.
✅ Open Source vs. Proprietary Software: Identifying areas for compliance focus and cost management.
✅ Categorization by Type: Enabling better organization and standardization of software installations.
✅ Rich Software Descriptions: Offering essential information to understand each software item's role and value within your organization.

🔍 Focus on what matters

Managing a vast software estate can feel like looking for a needle in a haystack. SIM helps you see the wood through the trees by highlighting software that requires immediate attention due to high costs, potential compliance risks, or complex licensing requirements
